BILINGUAL/BICULTURAL

Led By: Tarek Elkassouf, Salman Jawed and Ahmad Angawi

Location: The Studio

Date: Thursday 16

Duration: 7:00 - 8:30pm

Admission: Free admission to talks - Entry fee applies to the fair (50AED)

A panel discussion between designers Ahmad Angawi, Salman Jawed and Tarek Elkassouf. Looking at the mindsets of the bilingual and bicultural designer to discuss ways in which coexisting languages affect the design process, and the impact of being nestled in the space between two cultures has on decision making.

Elkassouf is based between Beirut and Sydney and vibrates between the urban, architectural and industrial design worlds. Karachi-based Jawed is principal architect and founder of Coalesce, the name of his firm itself is an expression of bridging the elements; and, Angawi is a Saudi Arabian artist and designer, his work responds to culture and the human condition. The panel is moderated by Nicholas Leech, a feature writer for The National, Nicholas Leech has been writing about the UAE's architecture and urbanism, archaeology and heritage since 2010.
